About IASSH:

The Indian Association of Social Sciences and Health (IASSH) is a registered society that is affiliated with the International Forum of Social Sciences and Health (IFSSH) through the Asia Pacific Network (APNET). The primary goal of IASSH is to create a forum for scientists, research scholars, practitioners, and policy makers from various disciplines to collaborate on social and cultural dimensions of illness, health, and healthcare in India. The association aims to strengthen its networking capabilities with similar organizations both domestically and internationally, and to initiate appropriate and affordable health sector reforms to evolve an equitable healthcare system in India. IASSH has around 1300 life members who belong to different fields of social sciences and health studies.

The association encourages young scholars by providing them with a platform to share their research findings. IASSH conducts annual conferences and workshops where its life members and collaborating institutions can exchange ideas, thus creating a network for outreach on a continuous basis. Through the dissemination of research findings, the association hopes to bring about concerted action to address emerging issues in health and development sectors. IASSH's activities include conducting annual conferences on themes relevant to social sciences and health, identifying and recognising young researchers and their valuable publications.

Background of the Conference:

The concept of health encompasses physical and mental well-being, which is experienced by people living in harmony with their environment and each other. The COVID-19 pandemic has presented challenges and opportunities to evaluate health perspectives from a global to a local level. Health is influenced by various factors such as economic conditions, psychological parameters, and policies. The context in which people live play a crucial role in determining their health, and personal resources, including health capital, culture, region, and circumstances, influence healthcare utilization and behaviour. Understanding health involves examining three levels: people, perspectives, and context. The contributions of humanities and social sciences to the study of health are extremely diverse and can be put into the context of perspectives and culture. This multidisciplinary conference provides an opportunity for academicians, researchers, medical practitioners, funding partners, philanthropists, and non-profit organizations to exchange their research work, ideas, and policy perspectives.

Inaugural Session

The conference began with a formal inauguration at the Anand Swaroop Auditorium of Sharda University at 10:00 AM on 15th March, 2023. The lighting of the lamp and invocation of the deity marked the beginning of the conference, followed by the felicitation of guests, presentation of mementos, and bouquets. The dignitaries present were welcomed by the Dean (SSHSS) of Sharda University, Prof. Anviti Gupta. The guests included eminent personalities from various fields, such as academia, industry, and government. Prof. Sandhya Rani, General Secretary of IASSH, provided information about the association and spoke about the preparations for the conference programs, which included two memorial lectures. She highlighted the importance of the conference in bringing together experts and scholars from various domains to exchange ideas, share knowledge, and discuss emerging trends and challenges.

Sixth Prof. John Caldwell Memorial Lecture

The Doyen of Demography, Professor John Charles (Jack) Caldwell, died on 12th March 2016 at the age of 87 in Canberra. He was associated with the Department of Demography of the Australian National University (ANU) for many decades. Caldwell's seminal work included documentation of the role of mother's education in fertility limitation and child mortality decline and the role of circumcision in inhibiting the spread of HIV/AIDS in Africa. He is known for his "wealth flows" theory, which relates demographic transition theory to changes in intergenerational transfers within the family. He has encouraged and mentored many young scholars from India, and a good number of them received their Ph.Ds from ANU under his able guidance. His anthropological demographic work on South India, particularly on marriage, fertility and contraception, received much research attention. At the initiative of Prof. K.N.M. Raju, his students, colleagues and friends have approached the Indian Association for Social Sciences and Health (IASSH) to institute a memorial lecture in his honour. Considering this request, the IASSH instituted the lecture series in memory of the most famous demographer of our times.

Felicitation of Prof. Amitabh Kundu (who delivered the Dr Caldwell Memorial Lecture) by Prof. Anviti Gupta, Prof. C.P. Prakasam and Prof. K.N.M. Raju on the dais.

The Sixth Prof. John Caldwell Memorial Lecture was held at the Anand Swaroop Auditorium, Sharda University. Prof. T V Sekher, (President, IASSH) chaired the session. The session began with an introduction by Prof. K.N. M. Raju about the life and works of Prof. John Caldwell, a renowned demographer who contributed significantly to the field of demography.

The guest speaker was Prof. Amitabh Kundu (Professor Emeritus at L. J. University, Senior Fellow at the World Resources Institute and Adjunct Fellow at Research and Information System for Developing Countries.) who delivered the sixth Prof. John Caldwell Memorial Lecture on the theme - "Multi-dimensional Poverty for Planned Intervention and Monitoring in India".

He highlighted the need for a multidimensional approach to poverty measurement and suggested the use of various indicators such as health, education, and access to basic amenities to capture the various dimensions of poverty. Prof. Kundu emphasized the importance of addressing poverty as a multidimensional issue and the need for planned interventions to address the specific needs of various sections of the population. He also discussed the challenges in monitoring poverty reduction efforts and suggested the use of technology and data-driven approaches for effective monitoring and evaluation.

The lecture was followed by a Q&A session, where the audience had the opportunity to interact with the speaker and clarify their doubts. Dr. Rukmani proposed the vote of thanks, expressing gratitude to the guest speaker, the chairperson, and the audience for their active participation and contribution to the event. Overall, the Sixth Prof. John Caldwell Memorial Lecture provided valuable insights into the multidimensional nature of poverty in India and emphasized the need for a comprehensive approach to poverty reduction efforts.

8th Prof. K. E. Vaidyanathan Memorial Lecture

IASSH has instituted a memorial lecture in honour of Prof. K.E. Vaidyanathan since 2014. He was the President of the Indian Association for Social Sciences and Health (IASSH) from 2007 to 2011 and was mainly responsible for the expansion of the Association to its present form. Dr. Vaidyanathan was a distinguished demographer who served in various capacities in the United Nations and other organizations. He started his career as a faculty at the International Institute for Population Sciences in Mumbai and later became the Head of the Department of Population Studies at the Institute of Rural Health and Family Planning in Gandhigram. He then joined the UN system and worked in various countries such as Egypt, Syria, Uganda, and Sudan, where he helped establish centers for population studies and research, advised planning commissions, and conducted successful population surveys and censuses. In his later years, he also helped plan and implement the Living Standards Measurement Survey in Bosnia-Herzegovina. Dr. Vaidyanathan passed away in 2014 at Bangalore.

Prof. Abhiroop Mukhopadhyay, Prof. T.V. Sekher, Prof. N. Audinarayana. Prof. Sandhya Rani, Prof. Anviti Gupta. Dr. Ramna Thakur, Dr. Pragya Gupta and others.

The 8th Dr. K. E. Vaidyanathan Memorial Lecture was held at the Chanakya Auditorium, on the 16th of March 2023. The session was chaired by Prof. T V Sekher and co-chaired by Prof. Anviti Gupta. The event was graced by the presence of distinguished personalities, scholars, students. Prof. N. Audinarayana, spoke about the life and contributions of Prof. Vaidyanathan. The speaker for the event was Prof. Abhiroop Mukhopadhyay from Indian Statistical Institute (ISI) Delhi, who spoke on the topic, "Education and Economic Prosperity: Lessons from the Past and What it Means for Our Future." Prof. Mukhopadhyay's lecture provided valuable insights into the role of education in achieving economic prosperity. He highlighted the importance of education in creating a skilled workforce and driving innovation, which are critical factors in achieving economic growth. He also drew attention to the historical context, illustrating how education has played a critical role in the economic development of various nations in the past.

The lecture was followed by a vote of thanks, by Dr. Ramna Thakur, who expressed her gratitude to all the speakers and participants for their valuable contributions. The event was well-attended, and the audience actively participated in the discussions that followed.

Valedictory Session

The valedictory session was held at the Dr. APJ Abdul Kalam Auditorium. The session was coordinated by Dr. Sachee and Dr. Neeru Nagar, and chaired by Prof. TV Sekher, with Prof. Anviti Gupta serving as the co-chair. The session was honored by the presence of Prof. Sibaram Khara (Vice Chancellor, Sharda University) and Prof. Parma Nand (Dean Academics, Sharda University). The valedictory session began with Prof. Anviti Gupta welcoming the audience and the guests. Prof. Sibaram Khara delivered the valedictory address. Prof. Khara spoke about the advantages and benefits of an academic conference like this in better networking and collaboration for researchers and young scholars.

Prof. T.V. Sekher, as president of IASSH, expressed his happiness in the successful completion of the conference and thanked the local organizers, for their active involvement and commitment in successfully organizing the conference and the workshop. He also thanked the participants of the conference and members of the Association for their co-operation and support in enhancing the profile and activities of IASSH. Prof. P.M. Sandhya Rani, General Secretary, IASSH proposed the vote of thanks on behalf of the Association.

The session ended with a vote of thanks by Dr. Pragya Gupta, the Conference Convener, who thanked all the participants, guests, sponsors and organizers for their contribution in making the event a success. The certificates were distributed to the paper and poster presenters during the valedictory sessions.

Cultural Evening:

On the evening of March 15th, a cultural program was held at the Anand Swaroop auditorium to showcase the rich traditional cultural heritage of dance and songs of India. The program featured various dance forms including classical, folk, and contemporary dances. The dancers, dressed in colourful and traditional attire, presented a beautiful display of artistry and grace. The audience was enthralled by the performances, which transported them to a different world altogether.

In addition to the dances, there were also several musical performances that included both classical and modern songs. The singers, accompanied by talented musicians, mesmerized the audience with their melodious voices and soulful renditions. The event was a testament to the fact that cultural programs like these are a great way to promote and preserve our cultural heritage. The event was well-attended and was appreciated by all participants.
